

The estate of Maria Decatur Mayo Deyo (Lila) Garnett of Kittery Point, Maine has provided the following additional information on select lots:

- 1472. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1514. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1515. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1559. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1560. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1573. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1576. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 1616. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 2075. Please note: The St. Memin portrait is of Captain Steven Decatur (1750-1808) and the printed portrait is of Commodore Stephen Decatur (1779-1820)
- 2076. Please note: Title should read "FRAME MADE FROM THE HATCH COVER OF HIS FRIGATE..."
- 2106. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 2108. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 2109. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck". Also, HMV is for Henry Venn who was married to Maria Garnett Venn.
- 2110. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck". Also, family history indicates provenance directly descending from Mildred Warner Washington, George Washington's grandmother (and our consignor's 7th great grandmother)
- 2111. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 2113. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck". Also, The tea set came out of Dover, a plantation that was burned in Dahlgren's raid during the Civil War. It was owned by Ellen Wise, daughter of Henry A Wise.
- 2115. Please note: Correct family spelling is "Ten Eyck"
- 2121. Please note: This piece descended through the Lawrence and Cassandra Southwick family who were Quakers persecuted in Salem in the 1660s, and their descendants were abolitionists who married into the Philbrick family, also famous Boston abolitionists.
- 2123. Please note: This piece descended through the Lawrence and Cassandra Southwick family who were Quakers persecuted in Salem in the 1660s, and their descendants were abolitionists who married into the Philbrick family, also famous Boston abolitionists.
- 2135. Please note: This piece descended through the Lawrence and Cassandra Southwick family who were Quakers persecuted in Salem in the 1660s, and their descendants were abolitionists who married into the Philbrick family, also famous Boston abolitionists.

- 2141. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2142. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2143. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2144. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2145. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2146. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2147. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2148. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.
- 2149. Please Note: Ruth Deyo was a personal friend of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamen's tomb in 1924. Family history indicates that Ruth Deyo was the first woman to tour the tomb.